

ECOTOUR - The North East “Dunes, Rainforest and Rivers”

DESCRIPTION OF ACTIVITIES

The drive from Jeri to Camocim, one passes along stretches of pristine and unpopulated beaches. The wind in your hair, Jeri at you back, and a great adventure ahead. Crossing rivers and lagoons you arrive in Camocim an old fishing port which still functions as it has for many years.

From Camocim to Ubajara, you go from sandy seaside's, bustling fishing ports and majestic dunes, to lush green pastures, and mountainous rainforest.

For travelers starting their trip in Fortaleza, they will not miss this trip along the beach since they will have it on their return to Jeri.

Ubajara National Park is a pocket of rainforest in an otherwise sun soaked Province. Trekking through the park one will find beautiful vista's and waterfalls, amazing plant life and various wild life as well as the world famous Grotto, which houses a truly impressive array of stalactites and stalagmites. One also has the opportunity to take a thrilling ride on a trolley which takes visitors from the grotto up to the top of the hill.

Sete Cidades is a marvel of nature. Strange rock formations rise out of the flat land, named after creatures and sights they resemble, such as Tortuga and Arch de Triomphe, they are as strange as they are wonderful. Once inhabited by native tribes there are interesting rock face paintings by these ancient inhabitants.

Boat tour on the delta, take s one along the fourth largest river delta in the world. While drifting along the river one passes communities that haven't changed for centuries. One can also catch glimpses of wonderful wildlife as well as flora and fauna.

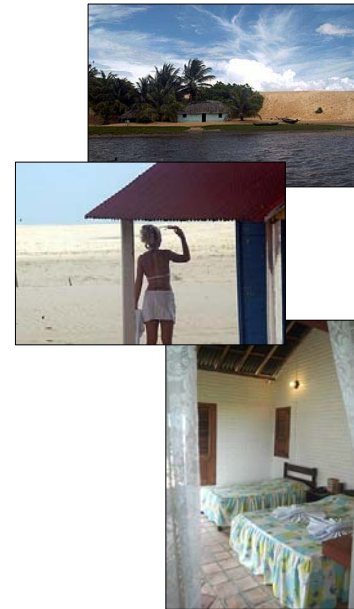

Lencois Maranhenses is absolutely breathtaking. 50 km of white sand dunes which far surpass anything Ansel Adams has ever photographed. In between the dunes exist sparkling blue lagoons.

Boat trip from Barrerinhas to Cabure, takes one along another river delta. Drapping green foliage and passing birdlife along with other wildlife entertain the passengers on this journey.

Cabure, is the perfect place to end ones journey. Tucked away from it all, it is the best of both worlds. On one side the open ocean, on the other, the verdant and vast delta. While here, one has a chance to enjoy some peace and relaxation before heading back to Jeri.

All accommodations and restaurants have been hand picked by the Club Ventos experts, promising to combine quality with character.
